Intro

I've been fortunate enough to experience the sport from inside at pitch at a professional level (South America, North America, and Europe). I spent many years working hard on learning the most efficient ways on how to develop a strong football team; from managing a coaching program to the development of a single professional footballer. I spent the last five years traveling around the globe (Greece, Italy, Spain, Mexico, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, USA), learning different methods and techniques used in the richest countries when it comes to football culture.

I believe all of these football experiences give me a broad understanding of the sport, making me a real asset in any football program, wether it's developing a team or an entire institution.
